

Know Before You Go

You. Sleep. Stay.

A new film by David Grabias

Screening and conversation with the filmmaker hosted by the Institute on Disabilities at Temple University, College of Education and Human Development

Where

Charles Library, Temple University
1900 N 13th St, Philadelphia, PA 19122
1st Floor Event Space

When

Wednesday, April 16
9:30pm - 12:00pm

What to Expect

- Coffee and tea available from 9:00am
- Welcoming remarks
- Film screening (film runs 1 hour and 40 minutes)
- Conversation with the filmmaker and special guests will follow the screening

Viewer Advisory: This film includes archival material that reflects historical language used to describe disability. That language is considered offensive today. Though we recognize the difficulty of this language, it is included because it sheds light on the origins of stigma that has been experienced by people with disabilities.

Entering the Building

Please enter the Charles Library using the entrance at the corner of Polett Walk and Liacouras Walk. The Library entrance is accessible. If you use this entrance, you will not be asked to show ID.

Image Descriptions:

1. A stone building sits on a brick walkway with a sign post for Polett and Liacouras Walks.
2. A brick walkway runs through the center of Temple University's Main Campus. A row of brick buildings lines the path to the left. To the right of the path is a soaring, modern building with an archway made from wood and glass.
3. A wood and glass entranceway to the Charles Library. The entrance has two sets of double doors with the Library's name above.

As you enter the Library, you'll find Stella's Cafe on your right, and the Event Space on your left. The screening will be held in the Event Space. On the day of the film screening, look for a registration table next to the event space entrance. The table will have a tablecloth with the Institute's name and logo.

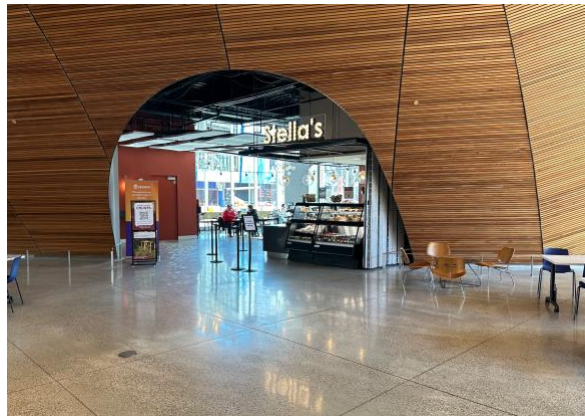

Image Descriptions:

1. Double doors lead to a modern looking event space. The word "events" appears on the wall next to the doors. A laptop charging station is positioned against the same wall.
2. A modern looking lobby with an arched wooden wall leading to a cafe. The cafe name, Stella's, appears in the archway in lights.

You may also choose to enter the Library through the 13th Street Entrance. The entrance is also accessible, but you will need to show your ID to the security guard. A school or work ID, driver's license, and state ID are all acceptable forms of identification. If you have questions about ID, please contact iod@temple.edu.

Image Description:

1. A textured concrete and glass building with an arched entrance and brick walkway.

Restrooms

Accessible restrooms and a water fountain / water bottle refilling station are located just outside of the Event Space. Gender-inclusive, accessible restrooms are located on the second and third floors of the Charles Library and can be accessed by stairs or elevator.

Image Descriptions:

1. Double doors lead to a modern looking event space. The word “events” appears on the wall next to the doors. A laptop charging station is positioned against the same wall. Accessible restrooms appear on the left and several adults are milling about in the lobby.
2. Image of accessible restrooms, with a water fountain / water bottle refilling station in the center.

Accessibility

The film, You. Sleep. Stay. is open captioned and ASL interpreted.

Welcoming remarks and post-screening conversation with filmmaker David Grabias will be CART captioned and ASL interpreted.

Audio Description is available— no advance request is needed.

Transportation

Parking Options

- Liacouras Garage is located at 15th and Cecil B. Moore Ave.

- Tuttleman lot is located on Montgomery Avenue between 13th and 12th streets
- Cecil B. Moore lot, located on Cecil B. Moore Avenue between 12th and 13th streets
- Street parking: There is often free parking available on the well-lit streets surrounding the theater.

Public Transportation

- Bus/Septa: Use the No. 4 or No. 16, which run north and south along Broad Street, or the No. 3, which runs east and west along Cecil B. Moore Avenue between 33rd Street and the Frankford Transportation Center.
- Subway: Use the Broad Street Line (also known as the Orange Line due to the color of the cars) and exiting at the Cecil B. Moore station
- Septa Regional Rail: Take to the Temple University station, which is located at 10th and Berks streets, or the North Broad Street station, which is located at Broad Street and West Huntingdon Street.
- Paratransit: We recommend using the 13th Street address as your drop off/pick up location. You can enter the Library through the 13th street entrance, or travel to the back of the Library and use the Polett Walk entrance.

Thank you for your interest in You. Sleep. Stay.

We're looking forward to seeing you on April 16th!